I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The city of Las Vegas has been supporting the commissioning and permanent acquisition, as well as temporary display of loaned artworks, for more than 40 years. Following national trends, the city formally established the Las Vegas Arts Commission in 1987. As an extension to citywide plans addressing arts and culture in the city of Las Vegas, Cultural Planning Consultants Carol Goldstein and Marc Pally were hired in 1998 to prepare the Public Art Plan for the City of Las Vegas. In response to the 1998 plan, the city established a Percent for the Arts Fund in 2003 to support the development of permanent public art projects within city-owned sites. In 2013, Barbara Goldstein & Associates were commissioned to create a new Public Art Master Plan for the city, which has helped to guide the development of the program to present day.

Through the Percent for the Arts Fund, General Fund, and donations, more than 1,000 objects are now within the city's collections, and since fiscal year 2015, more than $4.5 million dollars have been transferred into the Percent for the Arts Fund for public art projects.

In 2023, the city's Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs, under advisement of the Las Vegas Arts Commission, invited Art Builds Community, the successor firm to Barbara Goldstein & Associates, to revisit the city's Public Art and Gallery Program and provide updated recommendations for the future through a new Public Art Master Plan.

Art Builds Community's assignment beginning in 2023 was broken into five key areas:

- Provide updates in response to progress made since the 2013 Public Art Master Plan.
- Invite residents, business owners, workers, community leaders, and city staff to share and explore ideas for a new plan.
- Gather input through interactive art engagement activities, surveys, meetings, and events.
- Create an updated Public Art Master Plan that includes a vision, mission statement, goals, and recommendations.
- In response to the recommendations, provide implementation strategies and policies to guide the development and enhancement of the Public Art and Gallery Program.

II. BACKGROUND

A. CONTEXT

Strategic plans have guided the city of Las Vegas Public Art and Gallery Program since its inception. The Public Art Master Plan, in 1998, provided foundational elements for the program and included recommendations for funding, project types, locations, policies, and procedures. It guided some of the first and most prominent projects undertaken, including significant works by internationally recognized artists.

The 2013 Public Art Master Plan proposed expansion of funding, targeted investments and overhaul of the exhibits and collection management program. The current plan focuses on the Public Art and Gallery Program, within the city’s Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs.

The 2013 Public Art Master Plan recommended the following:

Recommendation 1: Create a sustainable funding strategy that builds on the City’s planning efforts.

Recommendation 2: Integrate art into the early planning of City capital improvement projects.

Recommendation 3: Include art in the Downtown Urban Design Plan.

Recommendation 4: Complete the art program for City Hall.

Recommendation 5: Develop a clear collection management policy for acquiring, removing, and maintaining the city’s art collection.

Recommendation 6: Nurture and build on the creativity of local and regional artists, artisans, and fabricators.

Recommendation 7: Commission temporary projects as a means of distributing art citywide.

Recommendation 8: Prioritize education as a key element of the Public Art Program.

Recommendation 9: Clarify the respective roles of Arts Commissioners and staff.

Recommendation 10: Strengthen partnerships with the private sector.

Developing a city-specific Public Art and Gallery Program for a community as visually dynamic and in proximity to the internationally recognized Las Vegas Strip can be challenging. It is sometimes difficult for policymakers and members of the public to distinguish between administrative and governmental boundaries, creative signage, privately funded art installations, and the artwork collections offered through the city of Las Vegas. While iconic visuals are a distinguishing characteristic of Las Vegas, the purpose of the city's Public Art and Gallery Program is specifically to enliven city-owned buildings and open spaces by commissioning and exhibiting works of art that enhance peoples' experience and understanding of the city and region.

Arts and culture play a significant role in the identity of the community that lives, works, and plays in the city. A significant strength of the city of Las Vegas is the diversity in the neighborhoods. Much of what was shared during the community outreach portion of the planning process is that underrepresented communities including artists, need to be recognized. These underrepresented communities can include women artists, people of color, artists with disabilities, the LGBTQ community, and the hidden stories of those who have been a part of the community's history. Through this process, community members, artists, visitors, cultural sector workers, and creative entrepreneurs shared the importance that the arts play in their daily lives.

Public art plays a strong role in the city's identity, and this is most clearly apparent in the historic Downtown, including Fremont Street and the Arts District, known as 18b, where many public and privately owned walls are decorated with murals. In addition, the arts are celebrated in the city's gallery spaces, through changing exhibits in City Hall, at the Historic Fifth Street School, Charleston Heights Arts Center, and West Las Vegas Arts Center. Citywide, a collection of loaned, temporary and permanent artworks are within city facilities and outdoors, such as the Contemporary Public Art Program, Historic Westside Mural Program, Aerial Gallery Banner Program, Windows on First Program, AMP Utility Cabinet Painting Program, and the East Las Vegas Banner Project. Artworks have been permanently installed in key public spaces such as the East Las Vegas Community Center, Municipal Courthouse, Symphony Park, and will be included at the future Civic Center Plaza. During the process of writing the 2024 Public Art Master Plan, the City Manager directed staff of the Department of Parks, Recreation, and Cultural Affairs to ensure that public art projects are occurring in every part of the city of Las Vegas. Arts support from the city leadership arrives at an optimal time and will be an important part of the implementation of this plan.

This 2024 plan re-imagines the 2013 Public Art Master Plan recommendations in response to those that were realized, those that remain relevant, and those that do not coincide with the future goals for the Public Art and Gallery Program.

B. PURPOSE OF THE PLAN

This plan examines the 2013 Public Art Master Plan recommendations and analyzes those that were realized and remain relevant and those that do not coincide with the future goals for the Public Art and Gallery Program. Since 2013, the city has implemented the art program for City Hall, started the framework for a collection management policy, clarified the respective roles of Arts Commissioners and staff, and started the process of strengthening the partnerships with the private sector. Throughout the research, interviews, and engagement process, an understanding of the continued work became apparent.

Though the previous recommendations were not fully implemented, much work has been accomplished by city staff to continue the development of a strong program. The development of this Public Art Master Plan was guided by the city of Las Vegas, Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs, Public Art and Gallery Program staff, and the Public Art Master Plan Steering Committee, comprised of residents, artists, business owners, educators, city of Las Vegas and Clark County staff members.

III. TIMELINE AND METHODOLOGY

Gathering information and ideas to develop a public art plan is a process that works like a funnel. The consultants gather as much information as possible, then refine it to arrive at key ideas that can be harnessed into recommendations for the plan. Beginning in January 2023, Art Builds Community (ABC) employed several strategies to gather the information needed, becoming familiar with the city’s public art through site visits, in-depth reviews of its urban design plans and its public art programs. The team also sought out input from internal and external stakeholders, engaging civic leaders, artists, arts commissioners, community members, and visitors in conversations that were distilled into recurring themes that led to the plan recommendations. Each of these groups provided important insights that will guide the future of the public art program in Las Vegas (Appendix D).

The timeline for the development of the plan was as follows:

January 2023 – March 2023

Project Initiation and Research

April 2023 – July 2023

Community Engagement

August 2023 – September 2023

A. PROJECT INITIATION AND RESEARCH

During this phase of the project, ABC met with civic leaders and with city staff members from the Departments of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs, Economic and Urban Development, Neighborhood Services, Community Development, as well as City Council members and their staff. In addition to city staff, meetings were held with the Las Vegas Clark County Library District exhibition staff, developers working in the city, staff from the Marjorie Barrick Museum of Art, Las Vegas Arts Commissioners, local artists, and the consultant working on several special area plans within the city. Conversations with stakeholders occurred both in person and virtually. These conversations set the stage for the planning process and reinforced the meaningful role public art can continue to play for the community.

In addition to community engagement, ABC reviewed the following plans to identify opportunities for public art:

- 2014 Rafael Rivera Walkable Community Plan (adopted August 2014)
- HUNDRED \(Historic Urban Neighborhood Design Redevelopment\) Plan (completed May 2016)
- Vision 2045 Downtown Master Plan (adopted June 2016)
- Bruce Street Green and Complete Street Study (completed April 2020)
- 2050 Las Vegas Master Plan (adopted July 2021)
- Imagine Las Vegas Parks Plan (adopted June 2023)
- East Las Vegas Neighborhood Revitalization Strategy Area \(NSRA\) completed September 2023)
- East Las Vegas Special Area Plan (adopted June 2023)
- Las Vegas Medical District Public Art Plan (completed September 2023)

B. COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

ABC employed a variety of methods that lowered the barrier to community participation in the planning process. This process began with ABC's attendance at Las Vegas' first Arts and Culture Summit on February 16, 2023, where they had the opportunity to meet and converse with artists, leaders of arts organizations, and civic leaders. The team made a brief presentation at this event to introduce the planning process and how it would unfold.

From March through July 2023, Art Builds Community conducted community outreach activities, including stakeholder meetings, community meetings, a survey, and artist-led community engagement process that took place at public events from May through July. In addition, during this time the team conducted two (of three total) meetings with a steering committee consisting of members from the arts community (Appendix D).

Surveys

From May to July 2023, a survey was published and circulated widely through the city’s website and at the community events for people to complete in person. Four hundred and eighty-six (486) people participated in the survey and responses helped inform the recommendations in this plan (Appendix C).

Community Meetings

Members of the public were invited to provide their feedback during two online community meetings held by the consultants. Elders, artists, community organizers, business owners, and residents participated and provided input about community needs and priorities. Art Builds Community used core questions throughout the community meetings to solicit feedback (Appendix B).

The following community meetings took place during the community engagement phase:

- Online Community Meeting #1 Wednesday, June 28, 2023
- Online Community Meeting #2 Thursday, June 29, 2023

Artist-Led Community Engagement

Traditionally, public outreach for planning projects takes the form of group meetings. However, participating in online or in-person meetings is not always the best way to reach a broad cross-section of the public. As an alternative, ABC launched an artist-led community engagement process to meet community members where they gather, helping people feel assured that their concerns were heard during the planning process. ABC issued a request for proposals to select an artist team to create activity-based community engagement that would launch at public events during the spring and summer of 2023. Three proposals were submitted, and ABC selected local artist Fawn Douglas and the Nuwu Art Collective to lead the efforts. Nuwu developed and provided interactive art activities at community events, encouraging public participation during the planning process. Those participating in the activities colored images designed by artists of the Nuwu Art Collective inspired by the various Native American, African American, and Indigenous Latin American Traditions, ways of life, and wildlife in the region. Using the engagement with these images, the members of Nuwu encouraged community members to explore how public art can better tell the stories of their communities. They initiated conversations and encouraged participants to answer survey questions in person (Appendix C).

The prompts included:

- What have we learned about our environment and our connection to the animals, land, and people around Las Vegas?
- Why is culture important to all people and how do we feel when connecting to culture through public art?
- What type of public art or art experiences would you like to see in Las Vegas?
- Where do you want to see public art and cultural arts programming in Las Vegas?

Outreach events took place at the First Friday Artwalk on May 5 in the Las Vegas Arts District, at the 2nd Annual Symphony Park Fine Arts Festival on May 6, and at Nuwu Art Gallery + Community Center during the June 1 Bridges Exhibition and the June 9 Iridescence Market. Participants at these events expressed an interest in seeing more investment in culturally relevant art representing diverse stories, support for local artists, art that helps revitalize neighborhoods and districts, and family-friendly arts programming. There was a strong interest in the city's public art efforts and a willingness to see more engaging and innovative artwork throughout Las Vegas (Appendix C).

C. RESEARCH FINDINGS FROM PLAN REVIEWS

The city's various planning documents each identify areas that enhance the public's experience of places and promote walkability. Public art can serve as a tool to achieve larger plan-specific goals in each of these areas. The findings and public art opportunities from each of these plans are summarized below:

- Imagine Las Vegas Parks Plan's goals are to strengthen recreation and cultural opportunities for residents and visitors across the city and to improve access and connectivity of open spaces for ecological, social, health, and quality of life benefits. These goals can be directly supported with public art projects in urban plazas, pocket plazas, pocket parks, urban and neighborhood parks.
- 2050 Las Vegas Master Plan clearly states the important role played by placemaking through arts and culture on the health, sustainability, and development of attractive places for people to live, work, and recreate. It articulates the importance of culture and art in the community's quality of life, and it supports the strive to have desirable recreation and trailway areas, a well-run economy that supports local employment, a variety of housing opportunities, and attractive neighborhoods. It acknowledges that a shared understanding of the history and future of the city reinforces a sense of community and emphasizes that parks or places adjacent to them can create a sense of place through implementing art projects, and suggests that the city consider requiring developers responsible for art projects as part of development conditions or to integrate an in-lieu fee that directly supports the city's Municipal Arts fund. In addition, the 2050 Master plan suggests the arts can thrive in the Regional Center, mixed-use center, corridor mixed-use areas, and neighborhood center mixed-use areas.

- The HUNDRED Plan (Historic Urban Neighborhood Design Redevelopment) dives into the work needed to be done to revitalize the primarily African American Historic Westside. It is intended to unify the community, celebrate the history and culture, and enhance the key public spaces by using public art to tell the stories of the community. Opportunities for public art include artistic wayfinding and streetscape projects, and a gateway feature in Ethel Pearson Park and the D Street underpass. There are additional public art opportunities at key intersections that lead into the Historic Westside.
- The 2014 Rafael Rivera Walkable Community Plan and the Bruce Street Green and Complete Street Study share similar focuses on the benefit of walkable streets. Though the arts are not directly mentioned in this plan and study, the various elements are consistent with the goals of the public art master plan including wayfinding, road murals, creative interactive lighting, and utilitarian public art such as shade structures, transit stops, lighting, crosswalks, and community gardens. The plan also suggests employing the type of community engagements that are critical elements of public art.

Image: Visitors at the 2nd Annual Symphony Park Fine Arts Festival complete a paper public art survey and engage with a coloring activity designed by the Nuwu Art Collective on May 6, 2023. (Ward 5)

- The Bruce Street Green and Complete Street Study focuses on resident and pedestrian safety to transform the nature of this wide, high-speed, auto oriented street. Creative and thoughtful functional public art can directly address the issue of pedestrian and bicycle safety.
- The Vision 2045 Downtown Master Plan spells out clear steps for the revival of Downtown Las Vegas to address the community needs, values, and aspirations. Vision 2045 Downtown Master Plan clearly states that Las Vegas is home to a highly visible entertainment industry and that telling the story of place is essential to the revitalization of the Downtown. Integrating public art into streetscape design, lighting, landscape, and gateways can support these efforts.

- The East Las Vegas Neighborhood Revitalization Strategy Area (NSRA) concentrates on a predominantly Hispanic community that includes the East Las Vegas Community Center, Chuck Minker Sports Complex, Rafael Rivera Park, Hadland Park, and the Latin Chamber of Commerce. This plan recommends the implementation of the Spencer Greenway Trail Plan. A potential opportunity to improve pedestrian and bicycle travel and incorporate art at the trail head in rest areas and specific gathering spaces. The plan recommends specific locations that art can enhance including the Bruce, Fremont, and Sunrise intersection; Bruce Street between Marlin Avenue and East Poplar Avenue; and Bruce Street, Maryland Parkway three-way intersection. Art in these locations could enhance shade structures, pedestrian lighting, a space for temporary engaging art, and crosswalks.
- The Las Vegas Medical District Public Art Plan focuses on specific projects that will enhance the district while also addressing the goal of connecting the Medical District to Downtown. It emphasizes the importance of public art to the vitality of a place.

V. RECOMMENDATIONS

The following recommendations grew from the ideas expressed by people who engage with the arts in Las Vegas: city leaders, community members, and visitors. In addition to the inclusion of examples of potential projects within the recommendations, an implementation grid demonstrating the short, mid and long-term projected achievement of projects in response to this section is available in appendix A.

RECOMMENDATION 1:

Commission permanent and temporary art that amplifies the city’s diverse stories.

The Las Vegas area stands on lands historically occupied by the Southern Paiutes, also known as Nuwu, ancestors of the Tudu people of what is now the southwestern region of the United States. With the later introduction of trappers, then settlers and the addition of a railroad, there was a rapid transformation of the land and culture between the 1800s and 1900s. The city of Las Vegas is now one of the most diverse cities in the United States, and its Public Art and Gallery Program already tells many elements of the city’s story through outdoor murals, sculpture, and indoor exhibitions in public facilities and municipal buildings. In referencing the city’s 2050 Master Plan, a focus on the goals that support a livable, healthy, and innovative city can be furthered through the creation of permanent art that is representative of a city and its neighborhoods. When people see images that reflect their stories, a sense of pride and hope can emerge. During the planning process, Hispanic, Latine, African American, Black, and Indigenous communities expressed a desire for artworks in public spaces which tell their stories and the stories of other historically unseen communities.

a. Connect artists with community historians to develop art that tells the stories of Las Vegas’ different communities and their cultures.

- The Public Art and Gallery Program has worked in response to the recommendations within plans guiding projects for the East Las Vegas and Historic Westside communities. In continuation of the engagement and uplifting of these stories, greater involvement of cultural groups, elders, community historians and historical societies, can provide ongoing collaborative opportunities for artists to create meaningful artwork representative of hidden histories. Efforts undertaken to create the Historic Westside Legacy Park, which uplifts the people and stories of the West Las Vegas Community, can be referenced when building out this programming.

b. Identify sites that are meaningful to specific cultural groups and commission art that brings attention to these places.

- The Las Vegas Valley, whose name translates in the Spanish language to “the meadows,” holds a rich and deep history established far earlier than the city of Las Vegas itself. Recognizing there is significant power and meaning in place, the identification of locations where important cultural events have taken place will guide the commissioning of artwork that honors these events and the places where they occurred. Several city plans reference possibilities within the northwestern region of its boundaries, which serves as an unofficial gateway to spaces of significance to the Southern Paiute community, and provides for opportunity to connect public art with these places and their stories.

The artwork was installed temporarily in 2023 at the pedestrian trail entrance of Floyd Lamb Park at Tule Springs and will be removed and returned to the artist in 2024, as part of the city’s Contemporary Public Art Program.

RECOMMENDATION 2:

Develop art that enhances people’s experience with the natural environment.

City parks, open spaces and trails are places where recreation and cultural opportunities take place and are available to everyone. The canyons and mountains surrounding Las Vegas contain significant elements of the Mojave Desert environment. The trail system enables visitors and residents to explore this landscape and the Indigenous history that is woven through it. Public art that speaks to the formation of the land and its early inhabitants can teach people to understand and respect the environment. Including interpretive and environmentally themed art at trailheads, along trails, and inside parks will encourage people to explore the natural environment.

a. Place interpretive and functional art in parks, trailheads, and trails to encourage exploration and reveal information about the natural world.

- Commission visual, sound, and poetry-based artworks in locations, including city of Las Vegas parks, trailheads and trails, to inform people about the land and help them to value and preserve it. The art that tells the story of place in these natural locations can be accompanied by a QR code that guides a visitor to listen to a poem, a sound related to the art or any additional information that can enhance the experience accessibly.

b. Use public art to address the guiding principles that correlate this Public Art Master plan and the Environment chapter in the city of Las Vegas 2050 Master Plan.

- Commission local artists to work with community members to develop place-based art that supports the work of maintaining and preserving open spaces in a creative and innovative way, learning from successful regional programming examples.
- Identify an artist and agriculturalist to collaborate on projects that inform the community of the importance of protecting, enhancing, and restoring the natural features and resources of the Mojave Desert. The city has previously engaged artists to work in partnership with the Environmental division of the Department of Public Works, working with school children to design and place artwork on the sidewalk in proximity to storm drains, which channel water directly into Lake Mead. Successful elements of this project can be replicated in future initiatives.

- Collaborate with the Las Vegas Valley Water District to commission artwork that speaks to water conservation and the history, presence, and potential future of regional drought. While the city has partnered with the Las Vegas Valley Water District through the AMP Utility Cabinet Painting Program to paint cabinets owned by the Las Vegas Valley Water District, these individual projects have not centered on the topic of water conservation. With the demonstrated willingness of agencies such as the Water District to engage with public art projects, there is a preexisting relationship the city can build upon.
- Commission public art with an emphasis on being environmentally friendly and addressing the climate change issues the community is concerned about. The state of Nevada faces immense climactic challenges, the concerns of which were echoed in the responses received through the community engagement portion of this planning process. Public art projects created by the city have largely observed the environmental concerns of the region, through the use of sustainable materials and the avoidance of water features. With the impact of climate change, the city should develop projects addressing the direct impact these changes have on the community and the way artwork is experienced as a result.

RECOMMENDATION 3:

Commission art that supports neighborhood revitalization.

The city of Las Vegas' neighborhood plans demonstrate a recurring focus on community experience and history, the evolution of the place, and the importance of historical preservation in neighborhood settings. These plans advocate for preserving, honoring, and building upon historic neighborhoods, including the Historic Westside and Downtown Las Vegas.

- a. Create partnerships between private property owners and the city of Las Vegas to commission wayfinding elements, such as gateways and murals, particularly at the entries to neighborhoods and retail areas.
 - In 2023, the city completed the Historic Westside Mural Program, a community collaboration bringing together multiple artists and property owners to create a series of murals honoring the Historic Westside. The project demonstrated the power of artwork in invigorating a community, including the building of relationships within privately owned and community spaces. In following the success of this program, this work could continue throughout the city, in alignment with the HUNDRED Plan, the East Las Vegas Neighborhood Revitalization Strategy Area Plan, and the Vision 2045 Downtown Master Plan, all of which recommend specific locations where murals, gateways and wayfinding can be located and commissioned while leveraging the interest of community partners.

b. Work with the community groups and neighborhoods associations where there are specific neighborhood plans to commission functional art, such as wayfinding, seating, lighting, trash cans, crosswalks, or bike racks in gathering places.

- The research of the various city plans, and community discussions emphasized the concern for safety around walkability and accessibility in communities. Part of feeling safe involves the presence of amenities in a neighborhood. When there is inadequate pedestrian lighting, lack of shade structures in sun-drenching areas, or blight and building vacancies, problems often occur. Vibrant sidewalks can make pedestrians feel safe and urge drivers to pay attention to the crossing sections. Innovative bike racks can encourage the consideration of bike riding if there is a safe and inviting way to park them at their destination. The city's First Street Art trail can serve as an example, using artwork in public spaces, such as banners, bike racks, sculptures and temporary installations, to connect the Las Vegas Arts District with the future Civic Center Buildings and Plaza, City Hall, as well as historic Downtown Las Vegas.

RECOMMENDATION 4:

Support local and regional artists.

Across the Las Vegas valley, artists are concerned with the gentrification of neighborhoods that support creative activities, and the need for affordable space for creative practices to thrive within these areas. In conjunction with this Public Art Master Plan, the city of Las Vegas has also commissioned a study for the Las Vegas Arts District, focusing on the local arts ecosystem and future paths to support business development opportunities within the district. In addition to these efforts, the city can support local and regional artists by providing them with funding and opportunities to create public art locally and the resources to find success beyond the region.

a. Provide artist training to support development of permanent public artworks within capital construction projects.

- The regulations guiding construction in the city of Las Vegas are beholden to international and regional building codes. Among the requirements for permanent public art projects, a licensed contractor is often required to complete the construction elements of these projects. These regulations ensure the quality and safety of artwork installation and carefully structure art projects into the construction review process. Artists can benefit from training to strengthen their approach to working within these construction requirements, including scheduling, insurance requirements, budgeting and understanding architectural drawings. The Education Subcommittee of the Las Vegas Arts Commission has prioritized the furtherance of artist development and training in Fiscal Year 2024 and these initiatives should continue in the years ahead.

b. Promote in-person gatherings between artists, Arts Commissioners, arts patrons, and arts professionals, building the local community of artists and arts advocates.

- Community events can provide a space where artists, arts advocates and administrators can comfortably gather and share experiences, professional development opportunities and discuss their work. The city initiated a valley-wide arts gathering in February 2023 called the Las Vegas Arts and Culture Summit, which had over 100 attendees. While the summit is planned to recur annually, this recommendation focuses on additional smaller intimate gatherings that can take place in different neighborhoods where artists are already working. Partnering with local non-profits, businesses and cultural groups can support site identification for these to take place. The Las Vegas Arts District Neighborhood Association, on which city staff from the Public Art and Gallery team serve as Government Liaison, hosts a monthly “mixer,” providing a welcome space for businesses in the district to host engaging conversations relating to the arts and culture of the area. Leveraging existing events and planning new ones in additional communities can further the connection.

c. Develop an artist residency program, pairing artists working in diverse art forms with community groups.

- An artist residency program can encourage artists to explore disciplines and new working methods to create a rich learning environment and develop socially engaging and interactive art experiences in the community. Public art takes many forms, and a residency program can be the opportunity to further the education of the community relating to the types of public art that can be created. The city can build on this program by partnering with groups that are culturally diverse, multi-generational, and diverse in physical abilities to experience the arts. The city previously hosted an artist residency in 2017 at the Historic Fifth Street School, providing, funding, space and materials to produce a sculpture, integrating a workshop with local high school students, and culminating in a community event. With multiple flexible spaces, the Historic Fifth Street School can serve to both host the residency, educational opportunities, and any coinciding exhibition.

d. Identify projects specifically earmarked for local artists in the annual Municipal Arts Plan.

- Each year, the Public Art and Gallery Program staff prepare a Municipal Arts Plan which is presented to the Las Vegas City Council. The plan summarizes the accomplishments completed within the previous fiscal year, and those planned for the current fiscal year, as recommended by the Las Vegas Arts Commission. Within this plan, a section should be included which addresses the planned contributions of local artists to the projects.

RECOMMENDATION 5:

Enhance education about the city's Artwork Collection.

Art can build understanding and bring people together. Including an educational element in the Public Art and Gallery Program will stimulate community conversations, generate support for artists, and foster an appreciation of the city's programming more broadly.

Image: The city's current online art map.

- a. Upgrade the city's Public Art and Gallery Program website to include a current map showing all artworks in the collection.
 - At present, the city's art map identifies only 63 of the more than 1,000 artworks within the collection. The initial updating and consistent maintenance of an online public art map will inform community members and visitors of artworks in the city's collection and their location.

- b. Include public "Meet the Artist" events in the development of all public art and gallery opportunities.
 - Community members want to know who is creating and displaying artwork in their city. Holding events where the community can meet the artists provides time for questions and comments about the art to be shared. These events also help to develop a sense of pride in artwork created by fellow community members. "Meet the Artist" events can also be an opportunity for engagement that is multi-generational and accessible, and can serve to reinforce the educational components the program wants to have and further undertake. In January 2024, the Public Art and Gallery Program hosted a "Meet the Artist" event with a local artist who had previously completed projects for the city of Las Vegas and beyond. The questions, conversations, and overall positive reception from this event proves the desire for the community to have continuous access to these opportunities.

c. Engage community members in all aspects of project development, including participation on artist selection panels, introductions between artists and communities their work serves, and presentations of artwork concepts as they evolve.

- City staff noted a number of occasions where members of the public expressed an unawareness of the process a public art project entails. Inviting community members to participate on selection panels, help artists understand their communities, and learn about artwork concepts as they develop, will establish trust and respect for the artists and the work they are creating. This invitation to participate will inform people who may have felt left behind or are unaware of projects happening in their communities.

d. Develop public art audio tours to tell the stories of artists and the artworks they create.

- It is not always possible to have a staff member or volunteer facilitate a public art tour; however, the surveys taken during this planning process identify the community's interest in an accessible art tour. An audio tour is a fun and interactive activity that engages both residents and visitors to explore the city. Audio tours are adaptable and accessible. They can be created thoughtfully with consideration to the hearing and visually impaired and those who speak different languages.

- e. Install consistent labels for all public artworks in the city's collection.
 - The Public Art and Gallery Program is committed to upholding best practices for the display of artworks and recognizes the requirement to include consistent information on artwork labels, online and within collections management systems. A template specifying the size and material of the label, as well as the content for each, should be adopted and upheld so that the artworks within the collection are easily identified (Appendix F).

- f. Develop a docent training program for community members interested in the arts.
 - Las Vegas residents are interested in the arts, as evident throughout the community engagement that took place during the planning process. People of various generations enjoy the arts and want to see them continue in the city. The development of a docent training program can begin with the exhibitions within the galleries at City Hall and the Mayor's Gallery at the Historic Fifth Street School. This is an excellent opportunity to engage high school students, college students, and others interested in giving their time to the arts and to get the opportunity to engage and learn about the city's Public Art and Gallery Program. A program such as this can support the volunteers and students by providing a stipend or school credits for students. Since an internship program exists between the city and the University of Nevada Las Vegas for the gallery program, it is a step to developing a program that includes members of the community that do not attend the University.

g. Create opportunities for high school students and emerging artists to work together with professional artists to develop knowledge and skills in the field of public art.

- Collaborations between high school students, emerging artists and professional artists can serve as a great introduction to careers in the creative sector and can provide participants with valuable experience needed to bring their visions into the world. An emerging artist is one who is at the beginning of their art career and can be of any age. The Education Subcommittee of the Las Vegas Arts Commission has prioritized the furtherance of artist development through connecting emerging and professional artists in a mentorship pipeline. In Fiscal Year 2024 these initiatives should continue in the years ahead.

h. Work with local artists to develop marketing materials that promote public art in City Hall and citywide facilities.

- Commissioning local artists to develop creative ways to engage people to find interest in attending commission meetings, learning about upcoming projects, and participating in the development of projects can set in motion an ongoing presence from the community. The city previously has engaged local artists to design materials for the annual Las Vegas Book Festival, providing space for artwork to create a cohesive visual experience for the event. In reflecting upon these successes, artists could be engaged to create public art walking tours, bookmarks, or posters.

RECOMMENDATION 6:

Identify specific roles for Arts Commissioners to increase their support and participation in the Public Art and Gallery Program.

While members of the Las Vegas Arts Commission have a significant role to play in the oversight of the program, including providing the recommendations for projects and their funding annually, the entirety of the group is not collectively responsible for the selection of artworks for individual projects. Historically, individual Commissioners are invited to serve as a member of project evaluation panels which also contain a diversity of project stakeholders from elsewhere in the community. In addition to this role, there is potential to develop deeper involvement in specific projects. A greater understanding of project development will provide a stronger foundation and greater support for the public art program and the members of the Las Vegas Arts Commission.

- a. Assign an Arts Commissioner to each project, expanding their role beyond serving as an evaluator.
 - This will provide them with an opportunity to not only observe the artist selection process, but also monitor and participate in community engagement throughout the evolution of each project. Public art projects and gallery exhibitions which directly involve the community and local artists can be a good beginning to reengaging the Arts Commissioners outside of their regular Commission meetings.

b. In considering the diversity of the backgrounds of the individual members of the Las Vegas Arts Commission, while furthering recommendation 5, smaller “Meet the Artist” events tailored specifically towards members of the Las Vegas Arts Commission provides a more intimate space for Commissioners to learn more deeply about artists and their approach.

- These small events can take place at artist studios, at the Historic Fifth Street School or local businesses that are interested in being a part of the artist community. Commissioners can learn more about the artists, their process and use what they learn to share amongst people they connect with or potential partners for the Public Art and Gallery Program.

c. Assign members of the Las Vegas Arts Commission to serve as liaisons to the artwork collection, allowing them to develop an understanding of the small-scale artworks in the city’s permanent collection and to help with the promotion and broader dissemination of the collection as a whole.

- The role of the Arts Commissioners at present does not provide for opportunities for members to become acquainted with the collection beyond projects being presented monthly, or those they are serving as evaluators for. Increasing their understanding of the city’s artwork collection will increase the Commissioners’ ability to engage with members of the public about the program, both outside of and during the regular meetings of the Las Vegas Arts Commission.

d. Provide an annual tour for the Commissioners to learn about the works in the city’s collection.

- While tours have been offered to the Arts Commission in the past, these have not been prioritized as a recurring aspect of the programming. An annual tour of the public art collection and gallery spaces can be an engaging and interactive activity to capture the attention of members of the Las Vegas Arts Commission, including those having served longer terms, and those more recently appointed. Experiencing the indoor and outdoor collection will provide an understanding of the program and give them space to ask questions about the artworks. This tour can be scheduled in the new year after the annual municipal work plan has been presented at the arts commission meeting in the fall or winter months.

RECOMMENDATION 7:

Expand funding and partnership opportunities to support the Public Art and Gallery Program.

Beyond the inclusion of art in city-funded projects through the Percent for the Arts fund, artists can enhance the design of private buildings and infrastructure by integrating their ideas into the design of surfaces and forms or creating artworks for the projects by requiring the inclusion of artwork through a Percent for Arts in Private Development Program and Fund.

The city of Las Vegas assisted the commissioning agency with the solicitation and selection of a local artist for their new store in the Skye Canyon community.

- a. Explore the creation of a Percent for Arts in Private Development Program and Fund.
 - During the planning process, city staff expressed the importance of exploring the development of a percent for art requirement for private development, wherein developers support public art efforts directly on development sites or through contributing financially to the city's public art programming. The intent of this requirement is to build discretionary funding for public art projects throughout the city of Las Vegas, growing available resources. As this would require adjustments to the Municipal Code and other governance, additional support to explore and progress this requirement would come from the city of Las Vegas leadership. A summarized listing of other cities' similar initiatives is included in Appendix I.

- b. Include a public art requirement in all Redevelopment Agency projects.
 - Set aside 1.5% for on-site public art in Redevelopment Agency projects or require them to contribute the equivalent amount to a public art fund for the redevelopment area. This requirement will ensure that the arts play an integral role in addressing the Redevelopment Agency's effort to work with developers, property owners, and the community to recruit new businesses, create jobs, diversify the economy, and eliminate blight in redevelopment areas.

c. Encourage artists and arts organizations to propose projects for the city’s Visual Improvement Program grants.

- While the city does not offer granting through the Percent for the Arts Fund, the city’s Visual Improvement Program, administered through the Economic and Urban Development Department, incentivizes businesses with funding opportunities to address urban blight and exterior improvements through their granting process.

Encourage artists and arts organizations to work with local business groups to apply for projects for the Visual Improvement Program that responds to exterior improvement projects addressing urban blight, such as murals, signage, and other innovative exterior enhancements. These projects support economic vitality in a community and create a sense of pride in a place.

d. Public Art and Gallery Program staff should meet annually with the Public Works and Finance Department to review the existing Percent for Arts fund balance and identify probable additions.

- Understanding the upcoming funding for city projects will align the annual Municipal Arts Plan for success. Building regular check-ins with these departments will also ensure that a sufficient budget is in place early in the project schedule.

e. Consider loaning artworks from the city's collection for exhibition to other regional agencies.

- The city of Las Vegas-Clark County Library District programs 15 public galleries that display five exhibitions annually, and the city of Las Vegas programs six galleries with up to 18 exhibitions annually. While the aforementioned may serve as examples of opportunities to extend exhibitions, the broader development of a partnership between these types of regional agencies would provide new opportunities for the city to display works within its collections.

f. Build partnerships and create a framework for local organizations and city departments to better understand the potential in arts-specific initiatives identified through the Mayor's Fund for Las Vegas LIFE.

- The Mayor's Fund for Las Vegas LIFE provides a vehicle for non-city parties to support priorities that improve the quality of life for all Las Vegas residents. The Mayor's Fund believes in the power of public art to convene the community to create, reflect, and act and the city has successfully worked previously with the Fund to complete multiple public art projects. This proven funding source can support specific strategic projects to revitalize historically forgotten neighborhoods and work with youth and young adults on engaging public art opportunities that motivate them to learn more about their communities through arts activities and engagement.

g. Seek grant funding when collaborating with regional agencies or community groups.

When the city undertakes new projects that includes partnerships with regional agencies or community groups, it can collaborate with them to seek grant funding. Regional and national grants can financially advance projects that involve work with multiple generations, history, the environment, and the arts.

- The Nevada Arts Council offers a Project Grant for Organizations that supports arts and cultural projects with community impact, including exhibitions, performances, readings and festivals.
- The Mellon Foundation and the National Endowment for the Humanities focus on the preservation and commissioning of projects that hold a historical significance and public art projects commissioned in response to a cultural community and neighborhood.
- The National Endowment for the Arts offers the Our Town grant, which supports projects that address livable, equitable, and healthy cities that embrace community through placemaking that celebrates history and culture.
- Community Development Block Grants, as well as federal grants aimed at promoting environmental awareness and transportation alternatives, are also opportunities to support public art.

RECOMMENDATION 8:

Update and implement program-wide policies, procedures, and guidelines to reflect best practices.

The ongoing development and production of regular public art project and gallery exhibitions for the city of Las Vegas requires participation from the Mayor of Las Vegas, City Councilmembers, Arts Commissioners, and the Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs, who in-turn respond to the demands of serving the public. Integral to the success of the program, city leaders must regularly review and approve policies, procedures, and guidelines to ensure that the Public Art and Gallery Program adheres to best practices and industry standards.

a. Adopt policies and procedures for the acquisition, display, maintenance, and deaccession of artworks in the city's permanent and public art collection and on temporary loan. (Appendix F, G, H).

- The city's Public Art and Gallery Program has experienced rapid growth since 2013, including the addition of more than 300 painted utility cabinets through the AMP Utility Cabinet Painting Program. With up to 18 temporary exhibitions within gallery spaces annually and more than 1,000 objects permanently owned by the city, the representation of visual arts programming through the artwork collection and day-to-day operations are challenging to manage both financially and physically.

The adoption of Artwork Collection Policies and Procedures will encourage the city's active approach in managing its operations and provide a framework for exhibiting artwork in city spaces.

- As with the addition of artworks to the city's collections, a consistent approach must be applied to the need to remove or deaccession artworks from the collection. The adoption of Artwork Deaccession Policies and Procedures will ensure the city's adherence to best practices, property disposition regulations, as well as alignment with individual contractual obligations specific to artworks considered for deaccession.
- Through the citywide policies and procedures in place regarding donations to the city of Las Vegas, there is a less-established framework in place to address the instance of artwork gifts or donations to the city. While never formally adopted, the Public Art and Gallery Program has successfully operated in following the guidelines of a specific document addressing procedure for processing requested donations of artworks to the city. In 2017 and 2018, the Public Art and Gallery Program experienced challenges in navigating this process while encountering an influx of artwork donation requests in response to community tragedy. Through more formal adoption of Artwork Donation Policies and Procedures, the city can be better equipped to process these requests as they arise, including within constrained timelines and under sensitive circumstances.

b. Prioritize the regular inspection and detailed condition reporting of artworks within the city's collections.

- While an inventory of the city's artwork collection is completed annually, more frequent and routine condition assessment and condition reporting of the city's artwork collection is hampered by the reactive nature required to address the most common instances of damage, graffiti, and the limited number of staffing resources to respond within a timely manner. In response, efforts are currently often focused on the conservation of badly damaged work, rather than prioritizing more routine inspection, preventative maintenance, and pre-emptive conservation. Utilizing tools within the existing collection management framework, such as scheduling features and regular reports, a more focused effort can be leveraged in sourcing additional resources to care for the artwork collection. These reports will enable staff to develop an annual maintenance and conservation work plan as a key element of the annual Municipal Arts Plan, including in the leveraging of funding to secure the services of professional conservators for special projects.

c. Reduce the frequency of exhibition rotations.

- The city currently mounts 16 to 18 exhibitions annually in its gallery spaces, including within the Grand Gallery, Chamber Gallery, and Windows on First at City Hall, the Mayor's Gallery at the Historic Fifth Street School, the gallery at the Charleston Heights Arts Center, and the gallery at the West Las Vegas Arts Center. Some of the exhibits change as frequently as four times a year, placing a substantial burden on staff and pre-empting their ability to adequately maintain the city's permanent artwork collection or return temporarily loaned work to the owner. The frequency of these displays should be reduced with displays in City Hall changed annually, and the Mayor's Gallery at the Historic Fifth Street School, Charleston Art Center, and West Las Vegas Art Center changed twice a year.

d. Continue to update the digital records of all documents and images of the artworks in the collection.

- A check list of documents should be developed and maintained for each artwork in the city's permanent and public art collections. Scanned documents should include but is not limited to artists' contracts or purchase documents, photographic documentation of the artwork, construction drawings and digital assets, maintenance manuals, and meeting notes (Appendix F).

- Q. Other

The following is a consolidated list of write-in answers under "Other" and is displayed how it is written by participants.

- N/A (6)
- Cultural appreciation
- Support local artists (4)
- To support diverse community and celebrate and let other people in to their cultures
- Free space for artist
- It's about what it should be would be different answers
- Parks
- All of the above (2)
- To promote ideas not focused on sports
- Show residents and visitors that we are more than gambling.
- Facilitate self esteem and positive self images for under represented people
- Commission artwork
- None of the above. The role "is" childish, gaudy, out of place, inappropriate, high self-expectations, illusory ideology of "art" and uses for "art", preferential toward "marginalized" "voices" regardless of skill or vision, generally, "art" for the sake of art as funded by taxpayers who may or may not care about art. What "could be" the role of art in Las Vegas is a different question.
- Provide information about Las Vegas history (not limited to faces of history)
- Support redevelopment of aged neighborhood districts.
- Get some graffiti walls. build a skate park. stop xeriscaping, it's making everything too hot. First friday is too commercial. Get rid of the crap timeshare people and tchochke booths - try for a 90-00's Venice Beach/Santa Monica promenade vibe. Arts district has gentrified to the point of ridiculousness - locals are being priced out. Help promote collaboration among retailers -street fairs/promenade space that isn't adjacent to a casino. Make a dedicated food truck space, get some food kiosks with bacon wrapped hotdogs. Utilize empty retail space for temporary artist studios
- Educational / Exposing youth to [diverse] art opportunities (ex. theater and film) (2)
- Innovation and creativity prevents brain drain and keeps artists from seeking greener pastures
- In Portland witching the city limits the residents pay an arts tax. Local artist can then apply for a grant and receive money to help support them while they create large public art projects to smaller ones. The idea is to support an arts community.
- Re-enchanted our relationship with this place
- None

16. Is there anything else you would like to tell us?

The following is a consolidated list of open-ended comments from 387 participants and have been displayed how it is written by participants.

- Las Vegas more culture, for sure. We don't even have a dedicated art museum.
- Please promote local artists and art venues
- Love all the street art and sculptures around the city!
- Hope they add more sculptures
- I am always looking for employment opportunities
- The Neom Museum proudly displays historic signs in partnership with the City. These signs are lacking an educational component so visitors can learn the history and differentiate these from props.
- There are creative people who live in this city who need to feel supported by it so that they stay and contribute to the arts culture. An arts culture is not only about public art but about a city that supports the artists who live there. That will be crucial.
- No boring art!
- Before I lived in Vegas, I was impressed by the murals downtown, which bring so much character and energy. I am ecstatic to see what new art will be created. I love murals but also interactive sculptures.
- Improve the cleaning of the city supports art and culture initiatives.
- City directory of art installations is needed. more money should be made available to artists/ organizations for the sake of art. Help STEM become STEAM - kinetic/sound/ interactive art would be cool. I want to open a venue for local artists to do residencies and give studio space to students, homeschool groups, and special needs individuals - add accessibility to DEI for IDEA. The studio/gallery can be mobile and make use of empty retail spaces. We need a pageant of the masters here - let's do it in my studio/gallery space :)
- We're doing great but let's step it up a notch!
- I work in the Arts Factory and we are at a pivotal time in the history of art in the arts district Las Vegas because it might disappear under all the new development. Thank you for conducting this survey.
- Murals are less likely to be "tagged" than empty walls.
- More art! And promote more performing arts (off the strip)
- All citizens should be able to contribute to community art, including govt employees.
- Support local artists
- The City of Las Vegas Office of Cultural Affairs needs to be an independent division within the city government and NOT under Parks and Recreation. Putting cultural affairs under parks and rec was a terrible political decision. We can do better.
- This city is missing a variety of art museums. There are many art galleries with inconvenient hours, but not any reputable museums, in my opinion.
- Less white and tan everywhere
- Why can't we have the whole community come together and paint a collaborative mural of what Las Vegas is to locals???
- That would sound so fun to do
- It is time to fund a world class art museum in Las Vegas. We now have many new art attractions in the casinos, Area 15, Seven Magic Mountains, street murals, public art sculptures plus the Arts District and Downtown Galleries are now attracting more and more art loving tourists. Having a dedicated art museum would solidify Las Vegas as an art destination.
- On the east side of 14th Street, just north of Charleston, there is the NV Energy Mayfair Substation, which is MAJOR eyesore. Would love to see an ambitious public art installation to disguise as much of the substation's ugliness as possible.
- Thanks for doing this survey! Would love to see more arts in LV!
- I love the various artworks around town, even the painted utilities boxes.
- The arts district should use special sealant over their paintings and murals so that graffiti and vandalism can easily be erased. Create more sculpture statues in the arts district
- Putting art in business areas is an important tactic in getting companies and their execs to support the arts. It puts it right in their line of sight each day and makes it top of mind.
- I believe the Arts team is doing a great job. Let's update the Paintbrush Sculptures
- Thanks! Love to see as much functional and interactive art as possible! Get wild!
- I've been trying to volunteer but no response.
- We need a world class art museum in the City of Las Vegas. Stop waiting for developers to fund and build one. Let's gooooo. Until then more interesting and diverse public art. Thank you, MK

- Yay for more art
- Would like to see innovative creative shade structures and sculptural art around trees lining our sidewalks. Shade for walking humans should come before art but if putting the two together makes it happen that's great. Art that requires trees. I propose a public art project called "1000 Willow Acacia Trees for tying love notes to." I'm your artist, let's make it happen. -Amanda Farrar
- In 2004, I completed a commission invitation from MGM Resorts to create a pair of paintings each 6 ft. X 4 ft. In size. My signed pieces were installed inside the Bellagio Hotel since that year.
- I think the added art has been wonderful. I like looking at it downtown, parks and when I'm sitting at red lights.
- Keep doing your best! The people who grew up here know how far we've come already, just keep going.
- We moved from the Centennial Hills to Downtown to be closer to the Arts Community
- I look forward to seeing future updates about arts opportunities in and around Las Vegas.
- Keep adding public art! Add a park and outdoor venue to the arts district for free shows, artists to do live art, a cool place to sit and rest
- We need community effort to find place for homeless folks to live other than in front and side of my home. Stricter laws on thief
- Commission more local artists.
- Open Huntridge Circle Park
- Minorities who want to support the cultural arts should be equally supported. I've been involved in the Latino arts for a decade and all the work has been individual with no government support.
- Find an outreach program to remove transients from the streets. They are maliciously hurting themselves and the community and refuse help due to their mental state.
- I am thankful the city recognizes the poet and importance of Art in a community.
- Las Vegas needs more support of the arts musically as well too
- Feel this survey was poorly done. I believe it was worded to achieve a preconceived conclusion.
- I'm an artists who does most of my business with people outside of Vegas. I would like that to change, but the opportunities available feel far and few between. The feedback I get about some of the big public works we have is also very astounding. I think Vegas has lots of big abstract sculptures which is great if you like that sort of art. But people like all sorts of art and we should be known for the culmination of talents that Vegas artists can really put on.
- How can I get my art displayed?
- Need even more public art.
- I am a plastic artist. I will like to participate a some events of art. Thanks
- Please do not waste the money on projects designed for the wealthy only like the Smith Center.
- PLEASE KEEP UP PLACEMENT OF ART-EVENTS & PERFORMANCES! ALL FORMS OF ART ESSENTIAL!!
- Please add more art centered activities
- Making music, theater, and the arts available to youth will help to inspire and give them joy and purpose! There is so much artistic talent here and I encourage more programs for our youth in addition to sports.
- Oakland A's to Las Vegas? #Opposed
- We need more art in the suburbs. I had been talking to the state about the centennial bowl, I worked on the 215 committee. I want to see a lot more than a turtle at the centennial bowl. We need some art instillations over at the Walmart shopping center entrance. Make the area look like people have pride in the area
- More cultural arts is needed in Las Vegas as it continues to grow. An arts museum would be nice.
- I teach art history at UNLV & Nevada State
- Thank you for being proactive.
- Keep up the good work!!
- I recommend that the city consider partnering with other organizations such as Art Production Fund (they partnered with the Cosmopolitan Las Vegas on the P3 Studio Project and with Nevada Museum of Art on 7 Magic Mountains) to create temporary public art projects in non-traditional art spaces to introduce contemporary art to new audiences. P3 Studio and 7 Magic Mountains have been very successful in engaging with both local and tourist communities. <https://www.artproductionfund.org/about> Another project/model for temporary public art projects to activate neighborhoods and connect with other arts communities on a national level - <https://terrainexhibitions.org/mission>
- I work with the Annie F Lee Art Foundation. We would love to see her works represented by the City, as she also owned a gallery in Henderson and a Home here. She passed in 2014 and her Grandson, who was raised in Las Vegas owns her works and leads the foundation.
- I love living in Las Vegas and I am very proud to work for the City of Las Vegas. All forms of art are very interesting and thought provoking to me. I love experiences involving beautiful things, ideas or images.
- The city has done an amazing job promoting the arts, preserving history, and building an identity for our community that makes us one. I am so excited to see what comes in the future.
- Vegas raised
- Keep up the great work
- I love to go to the downtown to see what's new at City of LV

- We need more indigenous art. Las Vegas history didn't begin with Conquistadors, Mormons or the railroad. There are 20 federally recognized tribes in Nevada and they should be the focus of what type of unique-to-Nevada art should be installed. Bureau of Land Management has a program highlighting native Nevada plants which would be a nice cross over and bring awareness and pride in to what makes Nevada special and unique rather than modern art.
- I appreciate all of your efforts, but would like to see spaces that prioritize heat safety come before public art. Public health as climate change strengthens should be prioritized. Look at the study that UNLV did on East LV. In addition, homelessness. Let's figure something out and spend dollars on that growing crisis. Art is important, but more important for our city's reputation is how we get people off the street and either in institutions or rehabilitated. My best!
- Follow the blue print that the arts District in Wynwood Miami followed, and we will create a very special place that will attract locals and tourists alike
- Only elected officials that want to destroy property values would continue to paint ghetto electrical boxes in nice neighborhoods
- Glad you're doing this. The enthusiasm to skip the actual work of building a community with any form of support will just raise rents, price out local artists, bring in flash in the pan artists from else where to suck up the money available. The Ugo's and Oppenheim's displaced regional on artists that would have benefited far more from the opportunity than those artists and their enormous payout void ever touch. The disbelief of hearing the word arts district should infuriate us all when our own city raised artists business license fees while practically giving property and resources away to bar after restaurant after brewery while nearly every artist left. Now we have first good truck Friday with all the spray painted, superhero, pop knock off triteness anyone could dream of and not a gallery or significant showing in sight. Hope something supportive can happen before all the artists lose their last dime, give up, and leave.
- Talking about art is always a good thing
- I love the banners on telephone poles. I love them on Market Street in San Francisco. I lived there for 25 years and saw banners displaying LGBTQ Pride, Veterans, Christmas, and City History. They are not as huge an investment as static art, they can be changed periodically, they are hard to deface or vandalized, and they are colorful. I saw an example on this survey. Thanks for caring!
- Let's impact our surroundings through a positive way
- Senior Designer at Meow Wolf
- Interested in being more involved with 18b area
- Thank you for supporting public art in Las Vegas! Would love to see more.
- I would like to see an art tour of Las Vegas
- I produced 2 shows at the District Library and communicated with schools and Gov't officials. I did not get any feedback or support.
- Thank you for the adventure and sharing your art.
- I love Las Vegas! The city's effort to be more open and involved in the arts over the past few years had been great. I have ideas about the cultural corridor and how we can reactivate that area.
- With all the new pro sporting events, I would like to see more arts interactions with them. Both gallery type art and public art. For example, supply art for the F1 building events, Superbowl, rodeo, drafts, all star events, Stanley cup playoffs, baseball, etc
- Those musical notes are really banal...we can do better
- You should either repair and relocate Paintbrush Gateway or simply get rid of it.
- Thank you for giving the community an opportunity to input ideas.
- Stop gentrification; fine landlords who don't immediately develop their properties; underwrite promising arts-centric businesses; use zoning and licensing to keep Arts District arts-centric.
- Great sprat program
- The Nevada legislature has allocated money for a museum. The museum should be zero carbon and a be a beacon for the young people who want a world to enjoy. The funding coming down from the federal government, by multiple agencies, for environmental equity and justice can offer significant opportunities for some funding. All public art should support environmental equity and justice.
- Public art will enhance Las Vegas for both locals and tourists. Win Win!
- Plant more Tress/ Botanic Gardens on the street.
- I love the art we have—let's make and share more!
- More art please
- Please reopen Huntridge Park.
- The city has a great opportunity to make the city even more beautiful and to uplift local artists, however a lot of new projects going up in neighborhoods don't reflect the neighborhood or are eye-sores.
- Appreciate your community efforts
- Las Vegas needs a state art museum at least as big as the one in Reno
- Steel chambers, late the pyres...of her salamandrine fires, Cold currents thrid, and turn to rhythmic tidal lyres.
- Keep doing what you're doing
- IndigenousAF is doing to give voice to the historically unheard populations.
- So glad public art is important to the city

- The City of Las Vegas is doing amazing things in the arts!! Thank you for all you do for our community.
- I have been looking for artist's opportunities in the city I live in. It has been difficult to live in vegas as an artist due to the closing of local galleries
- Keep the art locally designed & created in support of local artists!
- As artists we appreciate living in a city that promotes art and artistic experiences
- Please contact me to discuss these issues ANY TIME! #EatMoreArt
- Yes contact to help advocate volunteer for Arts District and volunteer in fundraising, promoting and grant writing for the arts. Thank you
- Art should reflect the people and show the diversity of an evolving city that is more than just the strip.
- I think public art should be done by local artists and support the local arts community.
- Good art is challenging....keep it interesting
- I would like to see a major public piece of art, i.e. a sculpture or mural, honor Mayor Carolyn Goodman, before she leaves office.
- Keep up the great work!
- Love living in Las Vegas.
- No controversial "art", art should inspire, create joy
- All those photos here are interesting and many I have yet to visit. Hope there is a list of all the current installations and locations somewhere on the CLV webpages. Thanks for doing this.
- Allow for more "crafty" type events for local artisans at an affordable venue
- Public Art should be part of our daily lives for all people: residents and visitors.
- Thank you for including the arts in Vegas!
- What's the process for each project's approval?
- I would like to be a part of the arts community
- We need to start thinking like a globally connected community
- Looking forward to attending as many in person meetings as possible. Also, thank you for the opportunity to be involved within the community.
- Las Vegas needs a real art museum.
- Most important thing is financially supporting initiatives from as many local artists as possible. Otherwise, local artists may move away.
- Love Las Vegas - Moved 6 weeks ago from Portland, OR
- Norte y Sur is an amazing $17,000 sculpture with a dreadful site. It needs to be landscaped. We think it every time we drive by. It's truly horrible. If water is a concern, hardscape it. Start there before investing elsewhere!!!
- Thank you for all your hard work :) I'm so excited for this project and our new master plan.
- I am a graffiti artist. I used to live in Miami. I moved here to Las Vegas. I resent it. Please join your activities. I can paint very well.
- If Las Vegas wants to develop a centralized sense of community, it needs to partner with the county and the other sites to make tunnel building a cohesive community,
- Stop amazon resellers in art shows
- Stop using the displays of public art as a way to further marginalize our unhouse comrades. its their spaces too.
- Happy to be here
- This is an amazing survey thank you
- Places like NUWU are important. please support and encourage them.
- More art please
- i want to see a stronger connection from the CLV to LV paiute tribe, the pow wow would be a great start (note: i dont know what it said but i think it says pow wow)
- Free space for local artist
- Create more spaces for artists that either build wealth or are completely fine to use and don't exploit
- CLV needs to devote more resources to the arts and support local artists.
- Historical murals!
- Downtown parks!
- Should do more events like first friday or free events
- Your stand is very artistic
- Las Vegas is an amazing place to live. Proud to be part of this community
- Continue to do what you do
- It's beautiful to display art pieces and you should continue to support many local artists!
- Keep working to amplify the visibility of the artists + arts that are resident to las vegas
- Great work bring the fine art event to smith center!
- Love the arts in LV

- I grew up in a town that did community events often and I recommend it
- I loved the opportunity to support art in the community!
- Support local live music

POLICY

A. History

The city's Artwork Collection and general programming has been broadened, strengthened, and enlarged in the years since the founding of the city in 1905, the celebration of the nation's bicentennial in 1976, and the formalization of the Las Vegas Arts Commission in 1987, and followed larger worldwide trends in municipal artwork collections and including the operations of multiple formal gallery and exhibition spaces, a robust Loaned Artwork program, and establishment of a Public Art and Percent for Arts Program in 2003. The city's collection contains Permanent and/or Public Artworks, as well as those Loaned or on Exhibition, including original works of fine art, indoor and outdoor murals, reproductions of historic photographs, sculptures, and has been further defined in the Definitions section above and includes artworks by regional, national, and international artists.

B. Program Descriptions

The city's Artwork Collections Management Program serves to enliven and enrich spaces owned and/or operated by the city of Las Vegas by providing members of the public and employees access to artworks by local and non-local artists.

Goals

1. To enhance the aesthetic experience of persons visiting and working in city buildings and spaces.
2. To invite city employees to feel as if they are part of the process of placing artwork within their workspaces.
3. To invite members of the public to feel as if they are part of the process of selecting artwork within their community.
4. To provide visibility to artists and their artwork.
5. To provide exhibit space for the city's Artwork Collections

C. Location for Display

Artworks in the city's collection may be displayed in public areas of any city-owned building or outdoor space, including established galleries, lobbies, reception areas, public corridors, and conference rooms, as well as parks, parking lots, plazas and similar public spaces. Artworks may be displayed in offices and less-visible city-owned spaces, subject to Public Art and Gallery Program approval.

It is imperative that the designated Galleries are programmed with exhibitions in alignment with the city's Artwork Collections Management Policy in perpetuity. These spaces have been specifically designated and designed with the purpose of displaying artworks which have been thoroughly vetted through the this policy.

All artworks displayed by the city may be considered Government Speech and may not contain Prohibited Content. All artworks require review and approval by the Public Art and Gallery Program, and if deemed appropriate, the Las Vegas Arts Commission.

standards of the public art sector. These include best practices written in law such as the Federal Visual Artists' Rights Act of 1990 (VARA), policy decisions adopted by City Council, and recommendations by the Las Vegas Arts Commission.

What Artworks the City Collects

The city collects Loaned, Permanent and Temporary Artwork as defined in the Definitions section.

1. All artwork accessioned into the city's Artwork Collections should be subject to the criteria set forth below:
 - a. Artwork must be consistent with the scope of the collection and the city's mission.

Appraisals and Establishing Value of Artworks

The city utilizes original acquisition documents and works with certified, qualified professional appraisal service providers in order to establish the value of an artwork within its collections.

In the event of an artwork donation, the city cannot provide appraisals of artworks to donors or other members of the public concerning artworks not within the city's collections. If the donor is not claiming the donation as a tax benefit and/or does not provide a reasonable fair market value estimate for non-cash donations, the department must determine the fair market value. Internal Revenue Service Publication 561, Determining the Value of Donated Property, may be used as a reference when trying to establish the fair market value for non-cash donations.

Reproductions and Derivatives

Artworks within the city's collection have a contract on file which defines the ability of the city and the artist to reproduce or otherwise create derivative works of art, and the specific provisions vary per artwork and circumstance. In the event any city employees or member of the public desire to create such items (examples: t-shirts, stickers, or other memorabilia), the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager must be notified and approval must be gained. Reproductions or creation of derivative works, especially for commercial purposes and without explicit contractual ability to do so, is prohibited by law.

PROCEDURE

A. How the City Collects Artworks

Artworks may be acquired by the city permanently through commission, purchase, donation, or temporarily through a loan agreement. On occasion, artwork already on the city's premises with unknown ownership are identified as "found in the collection" and may be accessioned into the collection.

The city may elect to issue a public solicitation seeking applications for consideration (often referred to as a "Call for Artist" or "Request for Qualifications" or "Request for Submission of Qualifications" or "Request for Proposals") or it may seek out artists and artworks directly, at the discretion of the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager.

Departments seeking to acquire artworks, regardless if the request is for permanent or temporary artworks, shall route all requests to the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager and are not permitted to facilitate the collection, commissioning, creation, acquisition or otherwise, independent of obtaining approval and working with the city's Public Art and Gallery Program.

Artwork Selection Committee

Artworks are selected for the Collection by way of a committee (also referred to as a "jury" or "evaluation panel") which may be established for the selection of individual artworks or groupings of artworks, including temporary exhibitions. The committee shall include an odd-number of no more than seven voting members and shall be comprised of representatives from the following categories: Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs, the Public Art and Gallery Program, an arts professional, a member of the Las Vegas Arts Commission, and, if applicable, a representative from the workgroup or department impacted by the display of the artwork.

Artwork Selection Criteria

Artworks selected for the Artwork Collections shall be reviewed based upon, and not limited to, the following criteria:

1. Artistic merit of the artist's body of work.
2. Relevance of proposed artwork to its site and community.
3. Demonstration by the artist of strong conceptual skills with innovative and effective approaches demonstrated in other creative projects.
4. The artist's ability to design artwork concepts into materials that are appropriate for public space, taking into consideration maintenance, safety, and longevity.

5. The potential for the artwork to enrich and diversify the city of Las Vegas public art collection.
6. The artist's ability and willingness to collaborate with city employees, design and engineering professionals, stakeholders, and contractors.
7. The artist's probability of successful execution and completion of project.
8. The artist's appropriateness of qualifications for the project.
9. The artist's effective communication and organizational skills.
10. The completeness of the artist's application materials.

Artist applications will be evaluated to determine whether the artist(s) involved possesses the creativity, technical skills, appropriate level of experience, and discipline required of the public art project. Artist applications include a Letter of Interest, Resume, Images, and References. Some applications may require additional support materials (specified in the specific solicitation).

Artwork Commission and Purchase Procedure

The city has established the Las Vegas Arts Commission and primarily commissions or purchases artworks working through the Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs, Public Art and Gallery Program. Any requests for the commissioning or purchasing of artworks for the city must be sent to the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager. The acquisition of artworks through commission or purchase are subject to purchase limits as defined in Nevada Revised Statutes.

Artwork Donation Procedure

The Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs has an established policy and procedure for donated artwork and will work with the donor to ensure compliance with all applicable policies and procedures. Any requests for the donation of artworks for the city must be sent to the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager. Any donation of artworks, regardless of value, are subject to the citywide Donation Policy/Procedure (FN213) and Artwork Donation Policy/Procedure and requires approval from a representative from the Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs prior to consideration.

Because of the city's commitment to maintain art in its collection, donations of artwork are carefully considered prior to acceptance, professional standards are applied in handling, maintaining, or restoring all the art in the collection, and a strict process is adhered to prior to relocating or disposing of any work in the collection.

The city requires donors to transfer all rights of reproduction unless the donor does not own such rights or the gift is made by a living artist of the artist's own work. In such cases, the city will seek a nonexclusive right of reproduction from the copyright owner.

Warranty

When purchasing works of art or accepting donated artworks, the city will seek representations and warranties from the seller that the seller has valid title and that the work of art is free from any liens, claims and encumbrances. With respect to purchases of art, the city will also seek indemnification for a full refund for the work of art in the event of any breach of warranty.

Artworks Found in the Collection

Items already on the city's premises with unknown ownership are to be considered "Found in the Collection" and may be accessioned into the collection. If an owner of a "Found in Collections" item is identified, the owner will be contacted to reclaim the item, transfer title, or formally loan the item to the city. Any item accessioned under the rules for items "Found in Collections" must be retained in the collection for at least two years before being eligible for deaccession. After this time, title of the item is considered transferred to the city in lieu of storage costs. Documents from the investigation will be placed in the item's folder and retained permanently as evidence of an attempt to locate the owner.

Incoming Loans

The city accepts temporary loans of art for short term exhibitions and for longer term display in its facilities and galleries, facilitated solely through the Public Art and Gallery Program Section staff. All incoming loans require an executed loan agreement between the city and the artist or owner of the artwork, prior to accepting the loan of artwork. The executed loan agreement shall include a detailed condition report of the condition of the artwork to be loaned.

Loaned artworks may not be removed from the city premature of their agreed upon loan period, with the exception of written request from the loaning party and written approval from the city.

Loaned artworks shall not remain on loan beyond their agreed upon loan period, with the exception of written request from the city and written approval from the loaning party, in addition to a formal loan agreement modification

The city reserves the right to remove loaned artworks from display at its discretion and without approval from the loaning party.

Abandoned Loans

Artworks on loan to the city are to be retrieved by the lender within ten days of the artwork pick-up date indicated in their loan agreement. In the event the artwork is not retrieved within the agreed upon time frame, the artwork shall be considered Abandoned and become the sole property of the city. The city then reserves the right to remove, relocate or otherwise dispose of the artwork as determined necessary in the city's sole discretion.

Death of the Owner of a Loaned Item

In the event of the death of an individual owner of a loaned artwork, an executor or executrix of the estate will become the point of contact for the city in matters concerning the loan. To recognize an executor or executrix, the city must be furnished with proof of death of the individual owner of a loaned item (such as a death certificate) and verification of the named executor or executrix (such as a copy of the will or a letter from a reputable law firm.) It is the responsibility of the executor or executrix of the estate to provide these documents to the city. If the city receives no communication or notification of death and/or communication from an Executor/Executrix, loans may be considered Abandoned Items and disposed of accordingly.

Loans to other Government Agencies

On an exceptional basis, artwork may be made available for loan to other government agencies. Such loans are subject to the approval of the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager.

Loans to Individuals

The city does not loan artworks in its collections to private citizens or individuals.

Artworks shall remain as placed by the Public Art and Gallery Program. Artworks may not be decorated or otherwise altered while on display or in storage. Requests for the relocation of artworks to allow for decoration of an area shall be directed to the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager. Any relocation of artworks shall be coordinated and conducted by employees of the Public Art and Gallery Program section only. The artist's original intent in displaying the artwork, contractual obligations relating to the artwork, mishandling of artwork, the use of adhesives on a sensitive surface, and the damaging of an artwork which is on loan to the city are some of the many considerations the Public Art and Gallery Program is responsible for being cognizant of in managing the collection.

Identification Labels and Plaques

Adequate and consistent labels and plaques must be created and displayed for each item in the city's Artwork Collection, whether on loan to the city or acquired as part of the permanent collection, and displayed indoor or outdoor. A label and plaque template has been included with this policy/procedure as an attachment.

Publicity Materials

The city shall support and encourage awareness and understanding of art by disseminating information through the development of publications, programs, and its website for a variety of audiences and members of the public at large. These will draw upon its collection and research as primary sources for stimulating aesthetic engagement and promoting familiarity with art in its historical, cultural, and material contexts. When possible, the city shall serve as a resource to support continuing scholarly investigation and research to document, publish, and advance understanding of the city's collections as well as contribute to broader academic and public discourses.

It is the responsibility of the Public Art and Gallery Program designated employees to communicate any maintenance concerns to the Section Manager and the artist or owner of the artwork, as appropriate and in consultation with the artwork purchase or other agreement in place for the permanent acquisition of the artwork.

Maintenance concerns are a primary consideration in the commissioning and accessioning of artwork for permanent acquisition by the city. To further the goals of artwork longevity and durability and to keep future maintenance costs to a minimum, a pre-fabrication design review by a professional art conservator is required prior to the creation of all permanent artwork unless it is deemed unnecessary by the city. The choice of materials, fabrication techniques, and installation methods will be examined early in the design process at a point designated by the city. The conservator's review may suggest changes that the city can require the artist to accommodate before the final design is accepted.

Emergency Management

The city shall maintain an Emergency Management Plan for the Artwork Collections which shall be continually updated in accordance with current best practices based on current knowledge.

Records Management

All records relating to the city's Artwork Collections are classified by the State of Nevada as Museum Records and subject to a permanent retention schedule. All records created or received in the transaction of the city's operations of the Artwork Collection must not be dispersed or destroyed, except in accordance with its record retention policy. The city is to at all times maintain coherent, organized records on accessioned, non-accessioned and deaccessioned works of art, departmental loans, exhibition loans, and works of art brought into the city for possible purchase or gift.

Inventory Management

The city shall maintain accurate, up-to-date records on the identification, location and condition of all objects in the collection, as well as of ongoing activities such as exhibitions, loans, research and correspondence with donors, artists and scholars. These records should be recorded in the city's collections management database. Any original paper files regarding the acquisition of objects should also be retained. The city conducts an inventory of the contents of its galleries, exhibition cases, and storerooms at least once during every calendar year in support of the Fixed Asset Management Policy.

Photography and Reproduction

The city operates facilities which are open to the public and may be unmonitored for periods of time, and therefore cannot control the circumstances and frequency an artwork may be photographed. Artworks within the city's collection contain individual agreements which dictate the abilities of the city and the artist or owner of the artwork to photograph and/or reproduce the artwork.

D. How the City Removes Artworks from its Collections

Deaccessioning

The city is in a constant state of change and expansion and is obligated to maintain the city's Artwork Collections for the benefit of Las Vegas residents and visitors. Under rare circumstances, the city is obligated to conduct the necessary review and proceed with possible removal (deaccession) of artworks in the collection. Deaccessioning of artworks is a very delicate matter and must be managed according to strict criteria. Deaccessioning may never be used as a solution to generate additional funding to cover general operating budget gaps.

The Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs has an established policy and procedure for the deaccessioning of artwork and will work with the donor to ensure compliance with all applicable policies and procedures. Any requests for the donation of artworks for the city must be sent to the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager.

Artworks on loan to the city are not eligible for deaccessioning, as they are not formally recognized as part of the city's permanently owned artwork collection.

E. Special Considerations for Employees

Personal Collecting

The city's employees, and in particular those closely associated with the Public Art and Gallery Program's curatorial functions, must exercise care to assure that no conflict of interest can arise between themselves and the city. Employees are expected to exercise reasonable judgment in determining whether the scope of their personal collection and/or collecting activities is such that the matter should be discussed with their direct supervisor.

Display of Personal Collections by Employees

The city recognizes that its employees may personally collect works of art for their personal enjoyment, and therefore does not discourage the display of works of art from employees' respective personal collections within their immediate workspace when those artworks are in alignment with the city's Artwork Collections overall permitted content and is allowable in accordance with individual city Departments and operating units. The display of artworks from employee personal collections is not allowed outside of the employee's immediate workspace.

Dealing in Art by Employees

An employee may not act as a dealer in purchasing or selling works of art on behalf of the city, nor may an employee use his or her influence at the city for personal gain in the art market, except in the instance where such activities are essential to the job description of the employee, and is limited to those employees within the Public Art and Galleries section. Acquisitions of artworks for the city's collection shall be facilitated in coordination with the Public Art and Galleries section of the Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs and must include a vote with recommendation from the Las Vegas Arts Commission.

Gifts of Artwork to Employees

City employees may not accept gifts from vendors or service providers, including artists. Employees are encouraged to seek advice from their manager or director for unclear or unusual situations that might violate this rule. Employees are also encouraged to refer to the city's Code of Ethics Guidelines.

G. ARTWORK DEACCESSION POLICY AND PROCEDURE, PROPOSED

This appendix provides the proposed framework for the Artwork Deaccession Policy and Procedure for the city of Las Vegas Public Art and Gallery Program, including deaccessioning methods, process, criteria, reporting, and emergency removal.

PURPOSE

The purpose of this policy is to establish a framework of policy and procedure for the occasional review and removal (“Deaccession” or “Deaccessioning”) of artworks from the city of Las Vegas Artwork Collections, which have been acquired both permanently and temporarily for the city.

The city has designated the Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs, Cultural Affairs Unit, Public Art and Gallery Program as the appropriate stewards of this policy and related processes, with positions created as part of a long-standing program committed to the professional industry-standard operations of these programs.

Through this policy, the City ensures that:

- Artworks are regularly reviewed for appropriateness and context within the city’s overall mission, vision, goals and collections practices.
- Artworks represent the Artist’s original intent and remain otherwise uncompromised.
- Artworks are properly cared for with consideration to the city’s overall budget and obligations to the taxpayers.
- Deaccessioning, care and related activities pertaining to works in the collections are conducted in a professional manner that complies with applicable laws, and reflects the highest industry and ethical standards.

Scope

Applies to all city employees, elected officials and volunteers, including members of the Las Vegas Arts Commission and other city advisory bodies, and all Artworks as further defined below.

Eligible Artworks

All artworks within the city’s Artwork Collections and including those “Found in the Collection”.

DEFINITIONS

The city’s Public Art and Gallery Program oversees and operates two programs which are identified under the broader term of Artwork Collections:

1. Public and Permanent Artwork Collections Program
 - a. Oversees the development of Permanently Sited Public Artworks
 - b. Oversees the management of the Permanent Art Collection
2. Gallery and Loaned Artwork Exhibitions Program
 - a. Oversees the Loaned Artworks Collection
 - b. Oversees the exhibition of artworks on loan for temporary exhibitions

General Definitions

Artwork: A practitioner of the creative arts, recognized by such critics and peers, with a body of work including commissions, exhibitions, sales, publications and collections.

Artwork Collection: A blanket term to encompass artwork under the purview of the city of Las Vegas, including Public Artwork, Permanent Artwork, Loaned Artwork and artworks on display within Gallery Exhibitions.

City: A blanket term to include the city of Las Vegas as a whole, including geographic area, government, properties leased and owned, as well as its employees.

Deaccession / Deaccessioning: The formal act of approving and proceeding with permanently withdrawing an artwork or object from the city’s Artwork Collections by sale, trade, disposal or other public means. Artworks for consideration shall have been within the city’s collections for an excess of five years for murals and ten years for all other artworks.

Excessive Maintenance: When an Artwork requires upkeep valued at a greater overall cost than the current replacement value.

- The replacement value must be identified by a qualified appraiser and include the insurance value and fair market value for consideration. The higher identified value will be upheld as the replacement value.
- The cost for the upkeep must be established by sourcing no less than three quotes from a qualified vendor capable of completing the required upkeep. The lowest identified quote will be upheld as the upkeep value.

- The upkeep value should not exceed the replacement value in any 365-day period.

Excluded Items:

The following are not subject to this policy:

- Ancient Art, Archaeological Materials, Cultural and Historical Artifacts, as the city does not currently have the capacity to properly collect these items in alignment with industry-standard museum practices;
- commercially mass produced objects of standard designs, except where these elements are integral parts of an original artwork;
- directional elements such as super graphics, signage or color coding, except where these elements are integral parts of an artwork;
- decorative, ornamental or functional elements which are not designed by an artist;
- landscape architecture and landscape gardening, except where these elements are designed by an artist or are an integral part of an artwork, or are both designed by an artist and an integral part of an artwork;
- reproductions of artworks on vinyl banners for temporary display outdoors.

Exhibition: The display of artworks.

Found in the Collection: Artworks already on the city’s premises with unknown ownership. These items are frequently identified during office relocations and changes in staff.

Gallery / Galleries: A room, building or area specifically designated for the display of Artwork.

Las Vegas Arts Commission / Arts Commission:

The twelve-member volunteer advisory body appointed by the Las Vegas City Council, members of the Commission, and the Office of the City Manager, as defined pursuant to Chapter 2.34 of the Las Vegas Municipal Code.

Loaned Artwork: Artwork which is not owned by the city but has been temporarily provided to the city by the owners of such artwork for display within a city-owned facility, through a formal agreement.

Mural / Murals: A work of art, typically two-dimensional, applied directly to a surface such as a wall, building or ceiling through the use of paint or other media.

Permanent Artwork: Artwork which has been acquired with the intent of being maintained as part of the city’s collection for a minimum of five years.

Prohibited Content: Any material, including pictorial representation or any statue or other figure, of which the average person, applying contemporary community standards would find that the work, taken as a whole, depicts offensive representations and lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value. (Reference LVMC Chapter 10.42 for further clarification).

Provenance: The recorded journey of an Artwork from its origin through one or more owners to the present day.

Public Art and Gallery Program / Public Art and Galleries Section / Public and Visual Arts Section: An operating section within the Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs which includes the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager (also titled and referred to as “Public and Visual Arts Section Manager”), Visual Arts Specialists and reporting staff, who have been hired by the city to operate the Public and Visual Arts programming, including the management of the Artwork Collections, Gallery Programming and Public Art Programming.

Public Artwork: Artwork in any media whose form, function and meaning are created for the general public through a public process. It is a specific art genre with its own professional and critical discourse. Notably, public art is also the direct or indirect product of a public process of creation, procurement, and/or maintenance.

Types of public art may include:

- Two or three-dimensional art that may be integrated into the structure of a public works project, building, landscape, other fixture or element, in any material or media or combination thereof;
- two or three-dimensional art of any material or media or combination thereof;
- enhancements to public works projects, buildings, landscapes or any standardized fixtures and elements that are designed by an artist or by a design team which includes an artist member; and, new genres including video, electronic and digital art, holography, video and additional technologically based forms.

Temporary Artwork: Artwork which may or may not be owned by the city which has been installed or displayed for no more than 180 days.

Value: Artwork which may or may not be owned by the city which has been installed or displayed for no more than 180 days.

The determined sale and replacement price of an artwork.

- Fair Market Value: The price that the artwork would sell for on the open market.
- Replacement Value: The cost it would require to replace the artwork with a similar work of equitable condition.
- For insurance purposes, the highest value of an artwork is used.

POLICY

A. History

The city is in a constant state of change and expansion and is obligated to maintain the city’s Artwork Collections for the benefit of Las Vegas residents and visitors. Under rare circumstances, the city is obligated to conduct the necessary review and proceed with possible removal (deaccession) of artworks in the collection. Deaccessioning of artworks is a very delicate matter and must be managed according to strict criteria. Deaccessioning may never be used as a solution to generate additional funding to cover general operating budget gaps.

B. Process

The Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs has an established policy and procedure for the deaccessioning of artwork (and will work with the donor when applicable) to ensure compliance with all applicable policies and procedures. Any requests for the deaccessioning of Artworks for the city must be sent to the Public Art and Gallery Program Section Manager.

The below diagram summarizes the process as described within this document:

Staff receive a request to deaccession the artwork.

Staff review the deaccessioning criteria and prepare a detailed deaccession review form.

Staff present a report to the Las Vegas Arts Commission for their recommendations.

If recommended for deaccessioning, staff will proceed in accordance with all applicable policies and procedures.

Upon receiving a request for the deaccessioning of an Artwork, the Public & Visual Arts team will conduct an internal review in considering the established deaccessioning criteria as identified below and provide a detailed report.

Deaccessioning Criteria

Artworks may be considered for deaccession in the event one or more of the following have occurred:

1. The site in which an artwork is currently located is planned for destruction or other modification that requires that the artwork be relocated, and the act of relocating the artwork would destroy the artwork and/or destroy the artwork's artistic meaning or appropriate representation of the artwork.
2. The artwork is not on display and is kept in storage for more than two years because of a lack of a suitable site to display the work.
 - This does not apply to artworks kept in storage due to construction or facility improvements temporarily impacting the area.
3. The condition or security of the artwork cannot be reasonably guaranteed.
4. The city has not demonstrated any action to properly care for or store the artwork for an excess of two years.
 - Demonstrated action may include any condition reports or observed and communicated statements of the condition of the work, communication with vendors and the original artist.
5. The Artwork endangers public safety, which has been reasonably documented by a qualified professional.
6. The artwork requires excessive maintenance,
7. The artwork has irreparable flaws in workmanship.

8. The artwork has deteriorated, been destroyed or damaged beyond repair.
9. A written request from the Artist or their designee has been received, seeking the removal of the artwork from public display.
10. The artwork has been determined to be significantly incompatible in the context of the city's Artwork Collection, and/or the city of Las Vegas mission, vision and goals, which may include:
 - The artwork demonstrates egregious historical oversight, and/or revelation of new, significant information about the artwork, monument, or memorial, and what or whom it represents.
 - The artwork by professional assessment, has little or no aesthetic and/or historical or cultural value.
 - The artwork upholds tenets of white supremacy, patriarchy, and/or colonialism.
11. There has been sustained public objection to the artwork.
12. The period for the artwork's existence as agreed to by the artist and the city is at an end.
13. The artwork has been stolen from the city and is unable to be recovered.
 - Appropriate reports of stolen property to the proper authorities and demonstrated investigative efforts to retrieve the artwork shall be fully pursued and documented in advance of seeking to deaccession.

Deaccessioning Report

Upon review of the deaccessioning criteria, staff will provide a report that indicates:

1. The Artwork's original acquisition method and purchase price.
2. Restrictions that may apply to the specific Artwork based upon the review of the contract associated with the artwork.
3. An analysis of the reasoning for the deaccessioning.
4. An analysis of all relevant condition and maintenance reports pertaining to the artwork.
5. Alternatives to deaccessioning.
6. Suggested methods of deaccessioning.
7. Appraised value of the artwork by a qualified appraiser, which includes the replacement value for insurance purposes and the fair market value for resale purposes.

Deaccessioning Review Process

In the event the internal review reveals a recommendation to deaccession the artwork, the request will be formally presented to the Las Vegas Arts Commission as a report and discussion for possible action to recommend deaccession the work. Upon the formal recommendation of the deaccessioning from the Las Vegas Arts Commission, staff will initiate the deaccessioning of the artwork.

Methods of Deaccessioning

Staff will consider the removal of the artwork in the following ways and in alignment with the reported recommendations, which are listed in common order of precedence:

1. Sale or exchange of the artwork, in compliance with state and local laws and policy governing the sale of property:
 - The artist, or the estate of the artist, will be given first option to purchase or exchange the artwork(s) for its fair market value.
 - Sale may be through auction, gallery resale or direct bidding by individuals.
 - Exchange may be through artist, gallery, museum, or other institutions for one or more artwork(s) of comparable value by the same artist.
 - No artworks shall be sold or traded to city employees or elected officials, or, current or former members of the Las Vegas Arts Commission.
 - Proceeds from the sale of an artwork shall be returned to the city's Percent for the Arts Fund.
2. Destruction and disposal of the artwork, in the event the artwork has deteriorated or been otherwise damaged beyond repair, or deemed to be of negligible value, and no other methods of deaccession are achievable.
3. Donation of the artwork to a non-profit organization or other government agency.

Provisions for Emergency Removal

In the event that the structural integrity or condition of an artwork is such that, in the opinion of the Public Art and Gallery Program, the artwork presents an imminent threat to public safety, the city may authorize its immediate removal, and have the work placed in temporary storage. The city will notify the artist and the Las Vegas Arts Commission within 30-days of this action. Following the removal, the city will consider options for disposition: repair, reinstallation, maintenance, relocation, recontextualizing, or deaccessioning.

Exemptions

Painted Utility Cabinets

Painted utility cabinets commissioned through the AMP Utility Cabinet Painting Program may be removed and disposed of at the discretion of the agency with ownership of the cabinet. The city will notify the artist and the Las Vegas Arts Commission within 30-days of notification of the removal of the cabinet.

Printed Vinyl Banners

Vinyl banners printed with an artist's design may be removed and disposed of at the discretion of the city. The city will notify the artist and the Las Vegas Arts Commission within 30-days of the removal of the banners.

POLICY

This document serves as an extension of the citywide Donation Policy/Procedure (FN213).

The city regularly receives interest from private donors wishing to gift artworks to the city. Donations of artwork and requests for donations of artwork to the city of Las Vegas must be directed to the Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs, Public Art and Gallery Program. City staff and operating units outside of the Public Art and Gallery Program are not permitted to accept donations of artwork independently from this policy. The Public Art and Gallery Program retains the right to reject any artwork donation on behalf of the city.

PROCEDURE

The Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs has an established procedure for donated artwork and will work with the donor to ensure compliance with all applicable policies and procedures.

When a donation of an artwork has been proposed, the city department receiving the proposal shall notify the Public Art and Gallery Program, whose staff shall contact the prospective donor to inform the donor of the city's Artwork Donation Policy/ Procedure, adhering to the process outlined in the following section of this document.

A. Process

1. Staff receive an inquiry to initiate the artwork donation process, direct the person desiring to donate to PRCGalleries@LasVegasNevada.gov.
 - a. Staff are not permitted to accept into their possession an artwork under consideration for donation, in advance of the acceptance of the donation, with the exception of Public Art and Gallery Program staff currently overseeing a loaned artwork which is under consideration for donation.
2. Staff monitoring the PRCGalleries@LasVegasNevada.gov email account will send the potential donor a copy of the Artwork Donation Application Form and requirements for submittal.
3. The potential donor will receive and must complete and return the Artwork Donation Application Form to staff.
4. Upon receipt of the completed Artwork Donation Application Form from the potential donor, staff will complete a thorough review of the materials and prepare an Artwork Donation Review Form.
5. Staff will circulate the completed forms and materials within the Public Art and Gallery Program unit, conducting an internal review process, which will consider:
 - a. Artistic Excellence. Qualifications and professional reputation of the Artist; craftsmanship, conceptual content, style, form, condition, and value of the artwork.
 - b. Relationship to Existing Collection of Artwork. Style, form, scale, condition, diversity, quantity, quality, longevity, and compatibility with the existing collection of artwork and goals of the public art program.
 - c. Cost and Availability of City Support. The availability of necessary funding for conservation, maintenance, installation and/or repair; exhibition and storage space; real property for siting artwork; and staff support.
 - d. Relationship to Site, If a Specific Site is Proposed. Accessibility, public safety, and social, cultural, historical, ecological, physical, and functional context of the artwork in relation to the site, both existing and planned.
 - e. Legal Considerations. Issues related to liability, insurance, copyright, warranties, ownership, theft, vandalism, loss, indemnification, and public safety.

- f. Timing. Safety or hazard emergencies, relevant construction schedules, and the allowance of sufficient time for a normal review process.
 - g. Donor Conditions or Restrictions. Issues related to donor conditions or restrictions on the proposed Gift.
6. In the event the artwork is site-specific, the following will additionally be considered:

 - e. Accessibility. The site must comply with accessibility laws including the Americans with Disabilities Act.
 - f. Context. The site must be socially, culturally, historically, ecologically, physically, and/or functionally appropriate.
 - g. Departmental Support. The site must have the support of the city department that is responsible for operating and maintaining the site, as well as any advisory bodies that are responsible for making recommendations concerning the use of city-owned property.
7. In the event the Public Art and Gallery Program determines the donation is not suitable for accessioning into the city's collection, the person desiring to donate the artwork shall be notified.
8. In the event the Public Art and Gallery Program determines the donation is suitable for accessioning into the city's collection, staff will seek feedback from the Arts Commission. An agenda item will be placed on an upcoming meeting of the Arts Commission.
- a. Example: Discussion for possible action regarding a proposed donation of a mural, located at 495 S. Main Street, Las Vegas, NV 89101, "Untitled," by Artist John Doe, donated by Jane Doe. – Ward 3 (Amount of fiscal impact)
 - b. Special considerations should be applied to site-specific artworks, wherein additional community engagement is recommended beyond the meeting of the Las Vegas Arts Commission and prior to acceptance of the donation.
9. The Arts Commission shall review the donation proposal and, motion to approve or deny acceptance of the donation. The Arts Commission shall consider the criteria listed in item 5 above in making their decision, and shall base their determination on the artwork without consideration of the identity of the donor.
10. In the event the Arts Commission votes to deny the donation, the person desiring to donate the artwork shall be notified.

11. In the event the Arts Commission votes to approve the donation, Public Art and Gallery Program will prepare an Artwork Donation Acceptance Form and accompanying Artwork Donation Memorandum, and seek approval from the City Manager and higher for the donation, in alignment with the directions and processes outlined in the citywide donation policy/procedure (FN213).
12. Once the Donation of artwork has been accepted and the city becomes the legal owner, the Public Art and Gallery Program staff shall coordinate all processes relating to the acquisition, installation, exhibition, storage, maintenance, removal or relocation of the artwork on city-owned property.

B. Additional Considerations

Community Engagement

Through the presentation of donation proposals as agenda items at the Las Vegas Arts Commission meetings, these materials become public record, available to view. For site-specific public artworks, additional community engagement is recommended beyond the Arts Commission meeting.

Establishing the Ownership of the Artwork

Prior to consideration of a donation of artwork to the city, the donor must establish ownership of the proposed gift of artwork. The city requires donors to transfer all rights of reproduction unless the donor does not own such rights or the gift is made by a living artist of the artist's own work. In such cases, the city will seek a nonexclusive right of reproduction from the copyright owner.

Establishing the Value of Artwork

The city cannot provide appraisals of artworks to donors or other members of the public concerning artworks not within the city's collections. If the donor is not claiming the donation as a tax benefit and/or does not provide a reasonable fair market value estimate for non-cash donations, the department must determine the fair market value, which may not be interpreted as the provision of an appraisal. Internal Revenue Service Publication 561, Determining the Value of Donated Property, may be used as a reference when trying to establish the fair market value for artwork donations.
